PRESENTING AN APPEAL TO THE APPEALS BOARD

Reference: Columbus Code 4107.05 and Ohio Building Code 109.1.

The following are suggested guidelines for applicants making appeals to the Columbus Building Commission or the Ohio Board of Building Appeals.

- A. All persons making an appeal for a variance or code interpretation of the Building Code should prepare a concise presentation. Current drawings, photos, manufacturer's details and instructions, installation drawings and any other detail that will aid the Appeals Board to understand the request should be included.
- B. The Appeals Board's main source of information regarding the case to be heard is the written Adjudication Order. Applicants are responsible for presenting all necessary details and information for the Board to make a knowledgeable decision which will be based only upon the evidence presented for the case.
- C. The Appeals Board is not bound by any past decisions or variances. Each case will be decided on its own merit. Whether or not the Board granted a similar variance in the past is irrelevant. All current facts related to the building in the appeal being heard should be presented.
- D. The Appeals Board may grant a request based on code interpretation or unnecessary hardship. These cases should be prepared accordingly.
- E. The Appeals Board will not make code interpretation for general use of the Building Code. An interpretation will apply only to the specific building before the Appeals Board.
- F. Appeals based on unnecessary hardship should include evidence supporting the cost of compliance with the Building Code. Alternate solutions or equivalencies that would provide for the health and safety of the public should also be presented for the Board's consideration.
